OURSELVES.

OUR FOUNDER

The month of February is a great month for Scouts and Guides, because it is on 22nd February the founder of the movement Lord Baden Powell and Lady Baden Powell were born.

Anantapur Division.

The Assistant Organising Commissioner Sri S. K. Sidhanti took charge of the work at Anantapur on the 5th January 1953. He visited Bellary in January and helped in the organisation of the District.

Reception to Mr. Justice K. N. Wanchoo.

Our State Chief Commissioner the Hon'ble Sri K. Venkataswamy Naidu gave a delightful party in honour of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice K.N. Wanchoo, President of the Bharat Socout and Guides, Rajasthan State at our State Headquarters. Mr. Wanchoo speaking on the occasion (on 2nd February 1953) said that the merger was a step in the right direction and emphasised the need for taking the movement into the Rural parts, and every village in the State. The Scout leaders and Guide leaders of the City were present.

Drive for Efficiency.

The two Divisional Camps ran at the Lower Anicut and at Coimbatore have helped materially to raise the standard of efficiency of over 500 boys that took part in these camps. Credit goes to Messrs. K. S. Seshadri, M. Rajagopalan, V. C. Subbiah Gounder, T. R. Sundaram Pillai and Mr. J. I. Muthiah and other band of helpers and workers. The Districts by themselves are expected to follow the lead given by the Divisional camps. South Malabar has taken the hint and is holding a District Rally, and competition on 22nd February 1953. More Districts will of course follow. This has given a lie to the statement that "our boys remain Tenderfoots all the time".

A Sea Scout Group for Fisher Lads.

Apart from the routine work that has been carried out by the State Headquarters and the Districts special mention should be made of the starting of the Sea Scout Group at Wenlock Park under the East Madras District for fisher boys who are living in the kuppam behind our Headquarters. Eighteen of them have been enrolled and the Scoutmaster himself a fisherman is busy giving them the required training. On the occasion of the recent Sea Bathing Festival (Lunar Eclipse) these very boys took a Kattumaram into the sea and helped to prevent sea bathers getting beyond the safety line. Given the right direction, these fisher boys will prove equal to the other boys and in certain respects like Sea Scouting better. In connection with this we have applied to the Rotary Club for financial help in the matter of providing uniform and equipments. It is hoped that the help asked for will be forth-coming.

Duty of Everyone is to Support it.

SRI C. P. RAMASWAMI AIYAR'S ADDRESS.

Sri C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar declared that scouting was the most formative, adaptive and serviceable movement and it was the duty of everyone to support it, while giving a talk on "Scouting and Guiding", under the auspices of the Salem District Branch of the Bharat Scouts and Guides, on 29-12-52.

Sri C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar recalled how after the Boer War in South Africa, Mr. Baden-Powell and another took into their head a lesson from the Zoolus, who lived in the open air and believed in self-help and mutual help. The word Jamboree and several other words in the Scout movement were of Zoolu origin. At that time he (the speaker) and Dr. Besant were associated with each other in political work. It was Dr. Besant's idea to start a scout movement in India.

He said the Indian Students between the ages of 12 and 20 were not only equal but superior to their counterparts in any country in the world. But, after the age of 20 and by the time they reached 30, the Indian boys and girls faced economic problems: and so they looked sad and downcast, while the youths of the same age in the West, had a certain amount of sport and carried on scientific research. It was this plight of the Indian Students that moved Dr. Besant to start a movement to change their mental outlook and introduce a spirit of adventure and joyousness. There was too much of prematured domesticity and economic strangulation among the Indian boys and girls. So she taught them to live in the open air depending upon self-help. She started the scouting movement and gave it an Indian colour. She was perfectly correct in her diagnosis. The girl guides' movement was also started by her later.

Sri C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar said that when Lord Baden-Powell visited India, he was anxious to introduce the British imperial model. So it was impossible to reconcile the two movements, one started by Dr. Besant and the other by Lord Baden-Powell. He (the speaker) was entrusted to combine the two movements. When he succeeded in his efforts, he was made its first State Commissioner. From that time onwards the movement had rapidly progressed and now it had become an all-India movement. He appealed to the people to forget its foreign origin, as it amounted to exhibiting one's inferiority complex.

Sri C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar pointed out how the scouting movement had carried out the hermit or Gurukula ideal of their ancients by recalling the important maxims of scouting, namely, to be ever ready for adventure or disaster and to help neighbours.

Dr. K. N. Katju, Home Minister, Government of India, when requested to address a few words by the chairman of meeting, characterised Sri C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar's speech as "fascinating" and stated that it was the first time that he learnt how scouting came to India. He never thought that the ancestral origin of the movement was South Africa. While he was the Governor of West Bengal and Orissa, he acted as the Ex-Officio Scout Commissioner. He paid a tribute to the pioneering work of Dr. Besant in India and recalled how he was thrilled when he first heard her speech in 1901.

The movement, he said, had taken a deep root in India, since every where in the country they found scouts and guides. That kind of regulative equipment and complete equality, which they got from the movement, were something remarkable. Something must be done on a large scale to foster the movement. He pointed out how by a system of pilgrimages, their ancients were able to learn much by touring all over India in bullock carts; and similarly scouts could organise similar tours on walk during summer holidays and foster unity in the country.

Mr. K. Varadarajan, Secretary, Salem District Scout Association, welcomed the distinguished guests. Messrs S. V. Ramaswami, M.P., and S. V. Lakshmanan, District Commissioner (Scouts) also spoke.

Mr. P. Sherfuddin, District Judge, who presided, stated that salem had 5,000 scouts and guides, which was the largest number in the State.

Mrs. K. N. Vasanta Chatterje, District Commissioner (Guides) proposed a vote of thank.

Divisional Scout Camp-Lower Anicut

7-1-53 to 11-1-53

The fourth Divisional camp for the benefit of the Southern Districts was held at Lower Anicut from 7-1-53 to 11-1-53 with the munificent donation and blessings of His Holiness Sri La Sri Arulnandi Tambiran Swamigal of Sri Kasi Mutt, Thiruppanandal. More than 300 Scouts and Scouters from the six Districts (South Arcot, Tanjore, Trichy, Madura, Ramnad and Tinnevely) participated in the camp.

The camp site was an ideal one situated as it is on an island in the middle of the river Coleroon.

The campers were accommodated in thatched sheds and tents and were provided with all the modern amenities like electric lights protected water supply, telephone and mike. The river itself which was running low enabled the campers to have a jolly good bath without any risks of accidents.

The whole camp was divided into 3 sub camps; each of these sub camps and every bit of the camping ground were named after heroes for easy identification. The scouts themselves from all the sub camps were divided into second class and first class for purpose of instructions.

The campers were given simple wholesome food, run by the organisers themselves.

The camp Commandant in his work was assisted by a band of Deputy Camp Commandants and Assistant Camp Commandants.

There was a Deputy Camp Commandant for general arrangements lighting, exhibition, entertainment, Post and enquiries, sales etc. for instruction and games, for safety first and security measures, of First aid, sentry, duty, patrol and fire squads, parade and programmes. There was besides the Quarter master with his stores and assistants.

A special feature of the camp was the Band troop from the Junior Certified School, Tanjore.

The scouters were given lessons on patrol system, investiture and registration of troops, their organisations. Demonstration on hoisting the flag with the flag being carried by the colour party, fire fighting and bridge building, tent pitching etc. The sentry system and precautions against fire and disease were so perfect that there was not a single incident of illness or accident. The camp doctor Mr. E. S. Pattabiraman, M.B.B.S., had practically no work during his dialy rounds to the camp.

On the whole the boys enjoyed the great game of scouting during day time together with the camp fire at nights.

The camp was declared open at 4 P. M. on 7-1-53 by the Hon'ble Sri K. Venkataswamy Naidu, Minister for Religious Endowments, Government of Madras and our State Chief Commissioner. The State Chief Commissioner unfurled the flag and took the salute at the march past and reviewed the troops. The camp Commandant, Sri K. S. Seshadry, Assistant State Commissioner for Scouts welcomed the State Chief Commissioner and said that it was a happy augury that they were having a Scout Minister to Minister to the needs of scouts. The minister congratulated Sri K. S. Seshadry and his assistants for bringing up such a thoroughly planned camp so soon after the cyclone. He welcomed all the campers to the great Jamboree to be held at Madras in December this year.

The Secretary, Sri S. Narayanaswamy read out messages wishing the camp success from Pandit Sri Ram Bajpai, and Sri V. S. Hejmadi, I.C.S.

On the 10th at 2 P.M. a conference of scouters was held in which many things for improving and popularising the movement were discussed.

The evening from 4 P.M. was set apart for Visitors. The public meeting was presided over by Sri A. Krishnaswamy, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Kumbakonam. All the visitors had dinner with the campers on that night.

The visit of the State Chief Commissioner for the opening function and the stay for the last three days at the camp by the State Secretary; Sri V. S. Ratnasabhpathy and the presence of the State Organising Commissioner, Sri M. Rajagopal through-out the Camp enabled top level talks on scouting besides being a source of inspiration and guidance to the young.

The whole camp was in charge of Sri K. S. Seshadry, B.A., B.E., the Assistant State Commissioner and Chief Engineer. Electric Supply Corporation Ltd., Kumbakonam.

Girl Scouts of America.

On March 9, 1912 Juliette Low telephoned a friend in Savannah, in the southern State of Georgia, to ask her to help plan something new for American Girls.

According to Scout legend, this telephone call was the beginning of U.S. Girl Scouting. Mrs. Low, Georgia-born, became acquainted with the Girl Guides in Britain, and brought the idea to the United States after organising a troop in Scotland. In 1913, the U.S. branch changed its name to the Girl Scouts.

To-day, there are 1,337,000 girls between the ages of 7 and 17 who belong to the Girl Scouts of U. S. A. who are sisters to the 1,700,000 in similar organisations throughout the world. During Girl Scout Week—this year from October 28 to November 3—the organisation's members will renew their pledge to "help other people at all times" in all parts of the world.

As the largest girls' service group in America, the Girl Scouts start with youngsters looking for fun. They graduate youngsters ready for full and active citizenship. Together they savour the pleasures of evening by the fireside, learn to recognize the songs of the thrush and the tree toad, and master the principles of first aid. Into their year-round schedule they cram scores of joyful hours devoted to the 11 basic classifications of scout endeavour—agriculture, arts and community life, health and safety, homemaking, international friendship, literature and dramatics, music and dancing, nature, out-of-doors, and sports and games.

In addition, every Scout troop (composed of about 20 members) devotes much of its time to service. In any month, for instance, the girls may be involved in typical "good ideas" as making scrap-books for local hospital patients, sitting with children so parents can attend Blood Banks, gathering shoes and clothing for underprivileged children, and supplying magazines, books, records and playing cards to hospitalised servicemen.

Recognizing that international good will begins at home, local Girl Scout organisations throughout the United States encourage girls to make friends with those of their neighbours who may have different backgrounds. In Community-wide Girl Scout projects, girls have an opportunity to work and play with "sister" Scouts of various races, creeds and national heritages. In meetings of the smaller, more homogenous neighbourhood groups, Girl Scouts study the cultures of other lands. Thousands of individual Girl Scouts correspond regularly with pen friends abroad.

On a broader scale, the national organisation of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. arrange direct personal contacts between girls and adult leaders from many different countries. The Juliette Low World Friendship Fund is made up of pennies and nickels contributed by Girl Scouts. A large proportion of this fund is used to finance an international exchange of Girl Guides and Girl Scout personnel.

Every summer since the end of World War II, increasing numbers of Girl Scout representatives have been sent to camps and conferences in other parts of the world. There have been biennial international encampments in the United States, at which Girl Scouts from all parts of America meet with Girl Guides of other nations. The annual Juliette Low Sessions at Adeldoden, Switzerland, bring together girl scouts from all parts of the globe.

Last year, the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. sent 11 camp counsellors to work in Girl Guide camp abroad, and took in their places, 12 counsellors from other countries. Several Girl Scout adults visited European Girl Guide organisations to exchange ideas on the training of adult leaders.

More than 400,000 adult volunteers in the United States are giving their time and efforts to the Girl Scout ideals of establishing friendships among Girls of different cultures, nations, languages and racial backgrounds.

They believe that love is a stronger force than hate—that as more and more young people around the world learn to know and like one another they will develop a strong net of friendship against which the forces of prejudice and evil will eventually beat in vain.
